Welcome Pastor Matt

Grace and Peace

With these two words, Paul or another evangelist greet members of early churches in almost every New Testament letter. They are familiar words which echo from pulpits and Bible studies week after week. As appropriate as they are for formal greetings in worship, I also find them appropriate for the beginning of our time together.

At every stage in my journey of faith I find myself deeply aware of the work of God's grace: those gifts of forgiveness, faith, and sustenance that I could never earn. From my childhood as a cradle Presbyterian nurtured by multiple faith communities through my ordination and years spent as a pastor, I have been sustained by God's grace. God's grace continues to this day: the opportunity to be a part of Highland Presbyterian Church is a gift that I could not have earned but for which I offer God thanks.

In following the call to walk the journey of faith with you, my prayer is one of peace. This is a desire for something deeper and more meaningful than simply being nice. The shalom of God's beloved community is defined by whole and abundant life for all. It is my hope that, together, we can create wholeness: in the ways that we educate and encourage one another and in the ways that we work beyond ourselves for the needs of the community and the world around us.

So, my new friends, I thank God for bringing me to Highland Presbyterian Church. Though I haven't even met you yet, I love you and I thank God for you. Most importantly: in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, Grace and Peace.

Pastor Matt
